

Prevent Candidate Theft...

Another Recruiter is Courting Your Top Client… & She’s Too Smart to Leave Relocation to Chance!

You know that partnering with a professional relocation firm saves you time and money…and that letting a team of seasoned professionals handle an executive’s relocation details can actually help you seal the deal more quickly. But did you know the following three crucial facts about teaming with a professional relocation firm?

- You can get a professional relocation firm working for you and your candidate right away….for free! PROFILE Referral Systems gets paid on referral fees from the real estate agents we recommend. We don’t get paid until your deal is complete…so we’re motivated to find the right agent for your client, and to make your deal happen as quickly and as efficiently as possible.
- You can get 16 hours out of an 8 hour day. Relocation is a specialty that requires an extraordinary amount of time and attention to detail. When you partner with PROFILE Referral Systems, we can handle any of the calls and concerns that your clients have about their move. We can eliminate their anxiety, free up your time and focus, and make the relocation go as smoothly as possible.
- PRS provides valuable relocation information for FREE. We know that the more information an executive has, the more comfortable he or she will feel about their move. That’s why we carefully tailor, personalize, and package valuable relocation reports like sample city profiles, cost-of-living comparisons, area demographics, housing values, and moving estimates…so that executives and their families can feel more informed and financially confident about their move.

We take the time to listen and care about your candidate’s unique relocation issues. That's why we interview candidates at length to find out what their special needs might be -- and we also talk to thousands of real estate agents and other relocation professionals to find a perfect fit between candidate and agent.

Save time and money by partnering with PROFILE Referral Systems today! We’ll help you take success to the next level.
